

THE PANTRY

This space would have been used as a pantry and a “counting” room to hold money collected from the travelers and for storing extra provisions, materials, and implements used in operating the inn. Here, Sarah would have stoneware crocks, candle molds, milk pans and other item for use in providing for the needs of guests and her family. There are barrels to represent extra provisions, a large storage cupboard and a large stand-up desk.

Today this area presents the storage and tools necessary for the inn to function well.
